03. Submission of joint application by Sri Lanka and Indonesia to obtain the facilities under “Inter Regional agglomeration” included in the United Kingdom’s trade scheme for developing countries

The system of trade scheme for developing countries is implemented from June 2023 to maintain trade preferences awarded under the European Union generalized system of preferences subsequent to the departure of the United Kingdom from the European Union. Since Sri Lanka is a beneficiary of the generalized system of preferences of the European Union, Sri Lanka has automatically become the beneficiary of the trade scheme of the United Kingdom. According to the criteria under the proposed system, in order to obtain the benefits of the relevant preferences system for garment production, garments should be manufactured by using locally knitted and woven fabrics as raw materials. However, Sri Lankan garment manufacturers have not been able to obtain the optimum benefit of the trade scheme of the United Kingdom due to insufficient domestic production of knitted and woven fabric. However, according to the criteria of the trade scheme for developing countries, if input/raw materials produced by a regional country that the benefits of the trade preferences entitled are incorporated into a product manufactured by a country of another regional group with similar preferential benefits, provisions are included for such product to be considered as a product of the finally manufactured country. The aforesaid criterion is known as interregional agglomeration, and thereby it is enabled to claim the benefits for the exporters of both countries. As per the said provisions, both the Asian region (Regional Group I) and the SAARC region (Regional Group II) are two regions that have above preferential benefits. Accordingly, the Cabinet of Ministers has approved the proposal presented by Hon.

Prime Minister in her capacity as a Minister of Trade, Commercial, Food Security, Cooperative Development, Industry, and Entrepreneurship Development to submit one joint application by Sri Lanka and Indonesia by using the provisions on Inter Regional agglomeration and to obtain fabric/raw materials required for the garment industry from Indonesia and to take necessary steps for obtaining the preferential benefits to both countries by exporting finished garments of Sri Lanka to the United Kingdom.
